

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to recommend Mubarak Ibrahim. He worked with us at Dondich Creative, LLC as a Mobile Software Engineer and reported directly to me in my position as President.

Mubarak was brought on as a mobile software engineer but contributed much more in that role. During his tenure with my team, he brought a higher level of technical quality and expertise that benefited the company significantly. Some of his accomplishments include:

- Building our first initial mobile application utilizing cross-platform tooling which included the use of Flutter, CI/CD pipelines, Google Firebase, and more.
- Provide insight/guidance in product management discussions when it came to mobile app product design and implementation details
- Resolve mobile related issues quickly and with a high level of quality
- Add additional features and improvements that were driven by product managed specifications
- Collaborated greatly with team members in real time through our online channels as well as through our project management tooling (Atlassian JIRA and Confluence).

Mubarak is a delight to work with and I wouldn't hesitate to hire him again in the future. He brings a great sense of camaraderie to the team and always has a positive outlook. He elevates everyone who works with him. If you are looking for an amazing developer focused on building the best in mobile applications, he is a fantastic addition to your team.

Should you have any further questions about him, feel free to reach me by email at taylor@dondichcreative.com.

Thank you,

Taylor Dondich
